

MY FENG SHUI JOURNEY

By Tami Graham

My journey into Feng Shui began 20 years ago when I found myself constantly moving my furniture around, looking for that best arrangement. I could feel when something wasn't quite right in a room, and I drove my family and pets crazy with the new arrangements every 3 months or so. Then about 20 years ago I began to study energy and healing techniques and soon realized that as much healing as the body receives, it may not shift in a long term way if you are always coming home to the same environment.

Everything is energy and your inner world reflects your outer world, and vice versa. I had a Feng Shui consultation and began to see how much my home environment was reflective of my life struggles. Suddenly I could see the patterns much more clearly and connected all the dots that were out of alignment in my life, and relationships. I decided to study Feng Shui after the confirmation came that after moving my husband's desk to face the door to his office and put it in a new corner of a different room, he began to increase his client base, and long standing debt from clients began to suddenly shift and checks began pouring in. It was a significant change and the only thing new was the desk position! I was intrigued and needed to find out more.

As I studied Feng Shui more deeply, it empowered me to make huge changes with small additions, repositioning, and sometimes elimination, of furnishings and personal items. As I removed clutter, and created space for those things I wanted to manifest, my intentions become more and more clear to the universe. It was always so much fun to see what happened next! My life began to shift in amazing ways.

The most remarkable thing that using Feng Shui principles did for me was attract a wonderful job, doing work I love, and making a difference in many lives. I changed the environment in my Career section of my home, and cleared the entrance into and around my home. I literally, and symbolically, allowed success to come knocking on my door, as I left my life and home open for possibilities. I had answered an ad in the newspaper for a part time reception job at a holistic chiropractor's office, and within 3 weeks was offered full time office manager, along with a nice pay raise.

But even better than that was that since I enhanced my relationship area, and helpful people section of my home, I had attracted wonderful people to work for, and with. I have been very blessed with my work, and I am appreciated every day for what I bring to the business and to all the lives I touch on a daily basis.

To say that Feng Shui has changed my life is an under-statement, since in turn it has changed the lives of all the people I have the honor of meeting. Unblocked energy in motion combined with intention is very powerful and empowering. Just as one smile has the domino effect of spreading joy to all who choose to pass it on, Feng Shui opens up stagnant energy and the renewed flow connects all things in a way that words cannot express, it's just something you feel and are grateful for!
